

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

CHENGLIN ZHANG,

Plaintiff,

v.

ALEJANDRO MAYORKAS et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:24-cv-05594-SB-AS

ORDER OF DISMISSAL
WITHOUT PREJUDICE

Plaintiff Chenglin Zhang filed an I-589 application on January 30, 2015. After waiting more than nine years without receiving a decision, he filed this mandamus action seeking to compel Defendants to adjudicate his application. Dkt. No. 1. On September 17, 2024, the parties filed a joint stipulation to stay the case until October 29, 2025, based on the parties' agreement that USCIS will interview Plaintiff on June 17, 2025. Dkt. No. 15.

The parties request this stay in the interest of judicial economy, noting that Plaintiff will voluntarily dismiss this case upon receipt of the asylum decision. In the Court's experience with numerous similar requests in recent mandamus actions challenging similar delays, the setting of an agreed interview date generally leads to the resolution of the parties' dispute without the need for further intervention by the Court. However, staying cases requires the continued commitment of judicial resources to monitoring the cases and ensuring compliance with requirements to file status reports. It also increases the burden on the parties to file status reports or seek dismissal of the stayed case upon resolution of the matter.

It appears that the more efficient approach is to dismiss this action without prejudice to either party moving to reopen nunc pro tunc in the event that further Court intervention becomes necessary. The Court perceives no practical difference between this approach and the relief stipulated by the parties, apart from eliminating the need for future monitoring or action if the parties honor their agreement, as the Court expects them to. To further conserve judicial and party resources, the Court intends to adopt this approach unless any party objects.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that this action is DISMISSED without prejudice to any party seeking to vacate this order and reopen the action nunc pro tunc in the event that Plaintiff is unable to receive a determination in the time contemplated by the parties. In light of the dismissal, the Court discharges the order to show cause at Dkt. No. 13, and Plaintiff need not respond to the Court's order at Dkt. No. 14 regarding his failure to appear at the September 13 status conference.

Any party who objects to the dismissal of this action as ordered herein shall file a request to reopen the case no later than seven days after entry of this order. The parties will then be required to appear before this Court at a status conference that will be set within fourteen days of filing the objection to discuss the most efficient way to proceed. Failure to timely file a request to reopen the case will be deemed consent to dismissal as ordered.
